Food supplement made from beech, rosemary and juniper berry derivatives.

DESCRIPTION

Beech is a renal drainer in dysmetabolism. Useful in obesity, nephritis, kidney stones, allergies, and low gamma-granulocytosis production.

Rosemary contains diterpene and depsidic fractions (rosmarinic acid) that are highly effective antioxidants. Rosemary is a hepatobiliary drainer, therefore useful as a purifier in liver failure, hypercholesterolemia, obesity and allergies.

Juniper has tropism for the liver, the urinary system and the joint apparatus. The action of this herbal derivative extends to the gastrointestinal tract, arterial vessels and metabolism; in particular, at the renal level it stimulates functionality by increasing diuresis in hepatopathic subjects, as it corrects their hypoalbuminemia, also normalizing the osmotic balance.

Cranberry is the remedy for biological imbalance in the terrain to which the body reacts in an aesthetic sense with tissue hyalinization at all levels.

Experimentally, cranberry has been shown to be active on the reticuloendothelial system. It restores the bacterial enteroflora and corrects urinary tract dysmicrobialism.
