Bulbous plant native to Central Asia, with a strong smell, which spreads only once the sections are cut or crushed.

Annual herbaceous plant with a pleasant aroma, with significant insecticidal activity.

It is an intestinal antiseptic, a stomachic carminative and a sensitivity sedative (use in nervous dyspepsia). Indicated for aerophagia, flatulence, digestive migraine, vertigo and vomiting of digestive origin, palpitations, painful menstruation.

External use: massage on the stomach and belly in case of pain or cramps.

Aromatherapy references

The signature of Anise is the most explicit on the energetic plane of action of the plant, in relation to its psychological referents; Sagittarius (Liver) and Cancer (Stomach), are related to each other, within the processes of "digestion": Sagittarius, represents the qualities that lead to assuming an adequate role, in relation to relationships and the ability to renounce material ties, to undertake paths more in accordance with personal spiritual demands; as also symbolized by the glyph of Sagittarius: an arrow that passes through taut skin. Cancer, represents the ability to metabolize food introduced into the stomach and ideas introduced into the brain. Both signs contemplate a dominant Jupiter as a planet in Domicile (in Sagittarius) and as a planet in Elevation (in Cancer).

Ingredients: Alcohol, Green anise (Pimpinella anisum L.) ae 5%.
