DESCRIPTION

Because of its beautiful yellow flowers, the Amamelida is also called the magic bush.

In 1735, it was first brought to Europe and since then it has been used in cosmetics and especially for blood flow problems.

The tannins in amamelida promote the elasticity of the veins; for this reason it is traditionally used for varicose veins, couperose, arterial irrigation disorders, edema, hemorrhoids, and leg fatigue. Amamelida can increase the permeability of blood vessels, especially in conjunction with Red Vine or Horse Chestnut. It can also help in case of internal hemorrhages, having vasoconstrictive properties, being the best astringent medicinal plant.

It is interesting to use it in cases of heavy legs, varicose veins, hemorrhoids, prostate hypertrophy, premenstrual syndrome, acne rosacea, capillary fragility.

The tannins present in a variable percentage from 3 to 10% are a mixture of gallotannins, catechins and cyanidins. Flavonoids (myricetin, quercetin, tempferol) are also found.
