

Guarana dietary supplement, useful in cases of physical and mental fatigue.

DESCRIPTION

For centuries, Guarana, widespread in the warm tropical region of the virgin Amazon forest, has been a stimulant that the indigenous population also uses as a tonic.

By taking a few guarana seeds we will feel more refreshed and alert.

The Amazon Indians, the Maué and Munduruku, use guarana when doing heavy work, because it gives them energy.

The plant contains caffeine, bound in the form of an organic complex to guaranatine; also tannins, traces of theobromine, saponins, starch, resins and fats.

Ingredients: Water, alcohol, Guarana (Paullinia cupana Kunt) seeds 20%, honey.
