FABRICANTE: FORZA VITALE

Cranberry Food Supplement, improves the functionality of the urinary tract.

DESCRIPTION

The solid matrix used to prepare this extract in SYS is the fruit of Vaccinium macrocarpón, also known as American cranberry, a small shrub of North American origin, the Cranberry.

Rich in anthocyanosides, flavonoids, citric acid, malic acid, quinic acid and hippuric acid, as well as numerous other substances that have antibacterial properties, justifying its action, especially at the level of the urinary system.

Recent studies have shown that cranberry juice has the ability to make the surface of the mucous membranes anti-adhesive, which inhibits the cell adhesion of various pathogenic bacteria responsible for urinary tract infections, such as Escherichia coli (the pathogen most responsible for urinary tract infections). This action, which favors the physiological elimination of abnormal bacterial accumulations, contributes to counteracting the colonization of these potentially pathogenic agents in the intestine and bladder.

The use of the bog cranberry is indicated for acute and chronic disorders of the urinary tract, such as cystitis, often accompanied by intestinal dysbiosis that become true autogenous sources of urinary infections; especially in women, due to the anatomical characteristics of the female urinary tract, being common in men as well, caused by prostatic involvement.

Ingredients: Water, alcohol, Cranberry (Vaccinium macrocarpum Aiton) fruits 20%, honey.
