DESCRIPTION

Nettle is an old healing plant and one of the best-known herbs in our latitudes.

Formic acid is the cause of the acute itching it causes.

Nettles grow on compost heaps and in areas with rubbish, as one of the nettle's characteristics is to clean up waste.

It purifies the entire body of waste, detoxifying; it purifies the blood and rebalances its hemoglobin level. It stimulates the digestive glands (stomach, intestine, pancreas, liver, gallbladder), in addition, its detoxifying and stimulating effect on the metabolism, promotes the production of breast milk and lowers blood sugar.

A significant number of compounds belonging to different chemical groups have been isolated from nettle root: fatty acids, terpenes, phenylpropanes, lignans, curains, triterpenes, ceramides, sterols and lactins.

Given this chemical complexity, many studies have been carried out, which have identified anti-inflammatory, diuretic and antiproliferative properties of the plant for prostate neoplastic cells.

Ingredients: Water, alcohol, Nettle (Urtica dioica L.) root 20%, honey.
