Hollinger's philosophy is that the best quality is good enough for our children. All its products have been organic since 1988. Both the company and its range of products have grown considerably, their products do not contain additives.

DESCRIPTION

Hollinger was born when in 1997, directly pressed and freshly chilled fruit juices were sold for the first time in the refrigerated section of Austrian supermarkets. However, a particularly important and so typical Austrian product was not included: apple juice! So Hollinger developed the first naturally cloudy direct apple juice for the Austrian food retailer. And what's more, made exclusively with regional apples.

In those early pioneering days at Höllinger, the office was the living room of a small apartment. And to save cost, they even temporarily stored their products on their balcony at first. But it is inherent in good ideas that they want to grow to reach more and more people. Thus, from humble beginnings, a successful company grew over the years, with an ever-expanding range. Today they have a wide range of high-quality organic products that are known far beyond the borders of Austria, because they export their organic fruit juices, organic soft drinks and organic syrups all over the world.
