This dietary supplement is designed to take advantage of the properties of various plants in the treatment of prostate problems, such as acute prostatitis, which affects most men in adulthood.

Prostatitis is a condition characterized by the abnormal growth of the prostate gland, which compresses the urethra and obstructs the bladder, making it difficult to pass urine. This causes inflammation of the urethra, burning when urinating, various irritations and a feeling of incomplete emptying of the bladder.

Properties of active components:

- Pumpkin seed oil : Contains cucurbitacin, an anti-inflammatory compound that benefits the prostate and the affected prostatic duct. This essential fatty acid, present in pumpkin oil, nourishes, strengthens and detoxifies prostate cells. Additionally, it is rich in zinc, a mineral crucial for prostate health.
- Sabal or palm heart : Prevents the conversion of testosterone into dihydrotestosterone, the main cause of benign prostatic hyperplasia.
- Nettle : Increases urine production thanks to its components rich in potassium, organic acids and chlorophyll. In addition, it helps purify the blood by filtering toxins through the kidneys.
- Bilberry (Vaccinium macrocarpon) : It has diuretic properties that facilitate the expulsion of urine and acts as a powerful antioxidant that improves and protects the prostate gland.
