Pianto Healthcare develops, produces and distributes the Pianto and PiantoBiotic ranges, which involve naturally formulated solutions, which use fermentation to specifically respond to various health problems, through their high nutritional value. The company wants to continue respecting tradition, combining modern and traditional phytotherapy, enriching extracts from specific plants.

DESCRIPTION

According to Pianto Healthcare, bioactive compounds must be released from the food matrix to be absorbed and often must be modified in the digestive tract. This concept is known as bioaccessibility. This means that bioactive compounds must be accessible, at a minimum, to be effective. For example, if an ingredient is contained in a capsule or tablet, this does not necessarily mean that it will be accessible.

Before the bioactive compound is released, the digestive tract must break down the tablet or capsule, and this must be done at the right time. It is not uncommon to see tablets release their ingredients too late, or not at all. There are countless examples of people reporting finding the intact tablet or capsule in their stool.

The liquid form was chosen for the production of the Pianto and PiantoBiotic products. This formulation not only provides maximum accessibility to bioactive compounds, but also creates a matrix that allows for greater final accessibility.

The use of fermentation, which characterizes all our products, has the same objective. This process of fermenting substances allows us to produce and release bioactive compounds from natural ingredients.
