DESCRIPTION

Many of us will have heard of biochemistry at some point, this term was coined by Doctor Wilhelm Heinrich Schüssler more than 130 years ago.

Schüssler adopted the Greek term 'chemistry,' which is the study of elements, and added the word 'bios,' which means life. The term 'biochemistry' refers to the procedures and reactions that occur naturally in the organism, such as respiration, digestion or metabolism. Biochemistry also indicates the treatment that Schüssler developed after many long investigations.

The therapy is limited to twelve mineral salts that we have naturally in the body and that we ingest every day through our diet. Schüssler discovered that from these Salts much more effective remedies could be made than the pure minerals in our diet.

Schüssler mineral salts can stimulate or restore bodily functions, and even correct functional disorders of the body. Although Schüssler spoke of salt molecules, it has been shown that mineral salts are created by the union of metals and non-metals, which take the form of electrically charged ions and atoms.

We respect natural processes and that is why we make the most of those ingredients that Nature has made available to us for the benefit of any type of skin at any time in life.
