Androsurin is a dietary supplement formulated with plant extracts used in male disorders related to the prostate.

DESCRIPTION

Benign prostatic hyperplasia (BPH) is a very common disease in men that generally does not manifest before the age of 40. It consists of a non-malignant growth in the size and inflammation (prostatitis) of the prostate, which compresses the urethra and causes difficulties when urinating.

Androsurin combines in its formula three plant ingredients traditionally used in disorders of the prostate gland and urination problems.

- Nopal , in its composition, contains anti-inflammatory and diuretic active ingredients that facilitate urination.
- In addition to its anti-inflammatory properties, the African plum is also known for its regenerative properties of the prostatic secretory epithelium and studies support its benefits in reducing urinary tract symptoms related to BPH.
- Saw palmetto , with a recognized action inhibiting the enzyme 5 $\alpha$ -reductase, which allows inhibiting the growth of prostate tissue.
