DESCRIPTION

I have heavy periods. What iron can I take?

If you have heavy periods, you should take an iron-based food supplement. Ferrum de Inovance is a new generation iron with high assimilation and tolerance. It does not cause constipation like other irons, it does not have a metallic taste, it does not contain allergens and it is suitable for vegans. You should take one capsule a day, preferably in the morning, fasting and with a glass of water.

When I stop treatment my iron levels drop. What can I take?

We recommend that you take Ferrum de Inovance, a new generation iron with excellent digestive tolerability. You should take one capsule a day, preferably in the morning, fasting and with a glass of water.

When I take iron I have digestive problems. What iron can I take that does not cause these problems?

If you have digestive problems such as constipation when you take iron, you should take Ferrum de Inovance. Ferrum does not cause constipation because the iron is microencapsulated. Ferrum's tolerance is demonstrated by clinical studies. You should take one capsule a day, preferably in the morning, fasting and with a glass of water.
